The School gives no guarantee at this stage that all possible subject combinations will, in fact, be available. Consequently, students are urged to include a 'fifth option' which they would be happy to take if their first four preferences cannot be accommodated, especially if they are undecided between subjects and/or if they do not obtain results that enable them to study one of their original four choices (no one will be allocated to a 'fifth choice' without consultation).

Students interested in 'English' will need to express a preference for Literature or the combined Language/Literature course. Students cannot choose both courses.

Students interested in 'Design Technology' will need to express a preference for the Product Design or Systems and Control course. Students cannot choose both courses.
